A Brief Historical Background

The shahnameh was crafted during a time of significant cultural and political transformation in Persia. Its author, Ferdowsi (c. 940-1020 CE), was a Persian poet born in Tus, in northeastern Iran.

Living during the Abbasid Caliphate, Ferdowsi sought to preserve Iran's pre-Islamic history and mythology amidst the growing influence of Arab culture and language.

Key historical factors influencing the Shahnameh include:

- The decline of the Sassanian Empire: The Sassanids, Persia's last pre-Islamic dynasty, had a rich tradition of kingship, religion, and culture, which Ferdowsi aimed to immortalize.
- Islamic conquest of Persia: Following the Arab conquests in the 7th century, many Persian traditions and stories faced suppression, prompting a cultural renaissance through poetic retellings.
- Ferdowsi's patronage: The poet was supported by local rulers who valued Persian heritage, enabling him to undertake this monumental project.

Composition and Manuscript Transmission

Ferdowsi's shahnameh comprises approximately 50,000 couplets written in the Persian language, making it one of the longest epic poems in world literature. Its composition likely spanned over 30 years, reflecting the poet's dedication to linguistic and cultural preservation.

Over the centuries, numerous manuscripts have been copied and illustrated across Persia and beyond, with notable illuminated versions emerging during the Safavid dynasty (16th-17th centuries). Historical Context of Pre-Islamic Iranian Literature

Origins and Development

The roots of Iranian literary tradition extend deep into the prehistoric and proto-historical periods, with evidence of oral storytelling and poetic recitations. As settled societies emerged, these oral traditions gradually coalesced into written forms, especially during the Achaemenid, Parthian, and Sassanian eras.

The advent of writing in Old Persian during the Achaemenid Empire (550?330 BCE), exemplified by inscriptions like the Behistun Inscription, marked the beginning of recorded literary activity. However, much of the early literature was transmitted orally, preserving myths, legends, and religious hymns.

Influence of Zoroastrianism

Zoroastrianism, the dominant religion of Persia from the 6th century BCE onward, profoundly influenced literary production. Sacred texts such as the Avesta, which contains hymns (Gathas), liturgical rituals, and mythological stories, are among the earliest known religious literature of Iran.

The Avesta not only served as a religious manual but also as a literary masterpiece that conveyed cosmological themes, moral principles, and the dualistic battle between good and evil.
